Mr. Reuel Curtis

of the USA
Vienna, Austria

Dear Reuel:

Pete passed along to me your letter of 11 March and asked that I explore the possibilities in accordance with your request. I was able to exhume from the archives your original file and have had the various operating officials under Pete examine it against their present or anticipated requirements. I have also checked with your old office and at the end of this sequence find that I have no definite opportunity to offer in any of these locations. This is primarily the result of the particular specialties needed, the depth of knowledge within certain priority fields available, grade levels, etc.

We appreciate your continued interest and regret that we do not have any more specific advice for you at this time. Reuel, I presume that you may have also made some overtures to that portion of the organization with which you are in contact while in the field. It occurs to me that there might be some possibility there and I will also invite the specific attention of some of the Headquarters people from that side of the house.

Sincerely yours,

STATINTL
